

ANZGITA

Australian & New Zealand Gastroenterology
International Training Association

ANZGITA is a volunteer-based training organisation which services doctors and nurses in developing Indo-Pacific countries through regular tele-education webinars and in-country intensive training programs with local partners. The organisation has helped doctors and nurses save numerous lives over the past 13 years.

By purchasing ANZGITA socks, you will kindly donate equipment and medical training to improve gut health of the people in the Blue Pacific.

Supportive nurse teams from Appletree, NZ and Epworth show off their socks.
